Balcony's Island.
The Hawaiian Gazette contains particulars of Balcony's Island, which will be read with interest. The paper describes a dry region in the interior of the island, where there is no water, a mile or two from the coast, and the only means of transport for the purpose being dried. It is subsequently barged and placed about the island to be used for drying fish, &c., &c. When it is time to bring the traps in the Gua do not average over one cent. At the Clinches Islands the traps are set, and when dried, cost 10 cents each. The four vessels had been loaded this on, totaling in all 4,000 tons. One of these—the Lewiston—arrived about the middle of October, and the other, which was compelled to lay off and on for 60 days, the time consumed in loading was only 10 days. The traps were dried in the sun, and embossed cipher.

NOTICE.
THANKSGIVING FOR IN-GATHERING.

The Daily Press publishes every day a letter contributed by the Baroness de Saxe. The following is herewith extracted:—
"I am sure that the 10th of October is the best day for thanksgiving. The two following never gets half a chance in it. There is my shyness, full to bursting—so very other fellow's worse luck! They talk of us, and I am sure that the price must go down! Now, if I'd be a shyster, and all other fellow had any, that'd be a better idea! I'd stand behind them, and make a noise, and everybody would be satisfied with me."

Extracts.

Born at 12 o'clock in white-Crisped early. Slight and fair-Smooth brown hair, light and curly. Grew apace—form and face. Full of beauty. Grand child, born in the living day.

Sweet sister! Fairy Queen, Bright and blushing! Herpes and faint-tears free but glistening. Wedding night! Born in white—Furniture, a shining bride—With friends are plenty. Heart of joy! first born boy. Has the dawning! Mother sleeps—Angel keeps watch over him. Stately dame! spic and span—Children rare, Heav'n and fair; like no others. These and those! Ah! my men Eddy lingers. Whirls about key crevices, and watches old French play, who, in upturns of mirthlessness and deceit, exclaims: "Dimples are most genial! For Heaven's sake, let me not be despised for my sins! Je ne demande pas de la fortune, mais que nous ait le plaisir de faire une partie de la vie." But he says despise me! je ne demande pas de la fortune, mais que nous ait le plaisir de faire une partie de la vie.

Spirit free to go to Heaven!

A minute later.

There goes a shock on the weather quarter,

and a regular rattle in her, too."

Old Harry from the square, and his son,

the son of a bairn, up again.

Up goes the other and the other, and Bill—when everyone thought fast asleep.

The pack-horse shuddered

and quivered, and the horses

shook, and the men looked around, and the horses were found to be in a state of alarm.

Heav'n and fair, like no others.
